BioBridge Ltd, the UK-based bioscience innovation consultancy, announces the start of a new working relationship with Osprey Consultants LLC, a US-based animal health consultancy specialising in veterinary medicine product development and commercialisation. BioBridge and Osprey will assist each other in providing services for their respective clients.

Osprey's founder, Dr. William Symington, has, similar to BioBridge's Meredith Lloyd-Evans, long-term experience in the animal health industry. His 40 years of experience has covered all domesticated species and all key global regions.

Meredith Lloyd-Evans said, "I am pleased to be working with Osprey on assisting companies in the animal health area. We will be asking Osprey to help in analysing the US in-licensing and investment potential for animal health innovations and smaller companies from Europe and Asia, and linking these with Osprey's industry network, which is top-level and extensive."

William Symington said, "I am looking forward to working with Meredith as we seek out the opportunities for future innovative products in animal health."

Notes for Editors:

BioBridge was founded in Cambridge 30 years ago. Animal health activities are one strand of the work BioBridge carries out for innovative bioscience-based companies, industry organisations, government and academic institutions and economic development entities world-wide. Recent work in this sector includes the last two Global Benchmarking Surveys for HealthforAnimals, the international industry association, ongoing expert advice on biosafety and supply chain security for a European medical biomaterials company, market and prospects analysis for diversification of a rapid POC diagnostic system into veterinary medicine and animal production, and a development strategy project on insect-derived ingredients for animal feed for an Asian company.

Osprey Consultants was founded in 2016. Osprey advises biotechnology companies on opportunities for their developments in animal health, and is able to introduce them to potential partners in the industry. Osprey is currently handling several discussions and negotiations with leading animal health companies. Osprey also advises the financial industry on animal health matters. Amongst the companies who have consulted Osprey are several top ten private equity firms and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
